and 5084 other Sheffield lads
who never came back

Foreword

This list is a recompilation of the original 'Roll of Honour of Sheffield Men' which was compiled after World War One as a tribute to the City's War Dead. After the Armistice of 1918 it "was unanimously decided to provide some permanent memento of the gallant men associated with the City." At an early stage it was decided to restrict the list to the names of those who had fallen in battle or who had died of wounds.

As quoted in the introduction to the original list, "The interpretation of 'Sheffield men' for the purposes of the Roll of Honour was to be deemed to include men domiciled in Sheffield at the outbreak of War, students who were in Sheffield at the time and who joined a Sheffield Battalion, and also men temporarily absent from the City."

The original list was in several parts, as additions were being made as late as 1931. It was also rather confusing in its layout, dealing firstly with officers and then other ranks. A further complication was that it was primarily arranged by regiment and the order of regiments was based on the order of precedence used by the army. The final complication was that in some of the larger regiments there was more than one sequence of names - thus checking for an individual, if only a name was known was a very time consuming task.

With these limitations in mind it was decided to arrange the list as one long alphabetical sequence, by surname. In the process of compilation several anomalies came to light and were dealt with as follows: -

1. All complete and obvious duplications of entries have been removed.
2. There are entries where some, but not all of the information is duplicated, e.g. Name, number and rank are the same but there are entries under different regiments - These have been left and marked (query) after each name.
3. There are entries where there are variations on the same name, but other details are identical. Where it is not known what the correct form of the name is, both entries have been left and marked (query).
4. There are entries having the same Service Number but with totally different names and other details. These have been left in situ with no indication.
5. Other than the above, no further research has been undertaken to verify the accuracy of the original lists, nor to add to those original lists.
