Description of the walk to the Peak District:

There are many points of interest along the route awaiting your discovery, each with a story to be told.

The route passes through many urban areas, old and more recent and along countryside paths. It is a walk of progress and contrasts. It generally follows the ancient way out of Sheffield into Derbyshire.

or even do shorter sections of it. (see travelsouthyorksire.com for options)

Why not have a go at this walk to Peak District and Wyming Brook from Sheffield city centre (6.5 miles) and back again (5.5 miles). You could get the bus back if just doing one direction

I do hope you will find time to try the route of the new Lord Mayor's walk which has been designed to link Sheffield's Town Hall with the boundary of the Peak District National Park at Wyming Brook and celebrates the Park's sixtieth anniversary.

Many people do not realise that one-third of Sheffield's area actually lies within the Peak Park, which was the first national park in the UK and is the second most visited in the world. We are so lucky to have such spectacular countryside on our doorstep which, wherever you live in the City or if you are a visitor to the City, is so easy to access.

Walking is such a rewarding and low cost way to keep active. There are so many glorious and dramatic walks of varying levels of difficulty in the Peak Park but Sheffield also offers interesting urban walks which provide opportunities for local people and visitors to visit all parts of the City.

The Sheffield's Walking Forum do so much to promote walking in Sheffield and I am very grateful to them for devising this anniversary Lord Mayor's Walk which I encourage you to explore at your leisure.

Clir Dr Sylvia Dunkley, Lord Mayor
