Cutlery and Silverware Company Records
at Sheffield Archives & Local Studies Library
Front cover illustrations – left to right:

Buffer girl, c. 1907 (Sheffield Local Studies Library: Picture Sheffield s10183)

Contemporary cutlery, 20th cent. (Sheffield Local Studies Library: 683.82 S)

Mappin and Webb trademark, c. 1900 (Sheffield Local Studies Library: trade directory)
This list details the main records for a large number of cutlery and silverware firms available at Sheffield Archives and Sheffield Local Studies Library. It is not a complete list of companies and it omits some items such as extracts and articles from journals and newspapers. It also omits, on the whole, businesses that were solely concerned with small tool manufacturer, for which a separate list is in preparation (though it is acknowledged there will be some overlap between the two). In addition to the business archives listed here, there is other material available such as trade directories, industry magazines and photographs, local authority planning application plans and large scale ordnance survey maps, etc. Consequently customers are advised to search the Local Studies Library and Archives catalogues in addition to checking this list.

The description and address for each company has been taken, in most instances, either from Kelly's Directory of Sheffield and Rotherham of 1851 or White's Sheffield trade Directory of 1889. It is acknowledged, however that the description and address of companies may have changed in the intervening and subsequent years.

Where a significant amount of material is available in other museums, libraries and archives these are noted.
