Introduction

This booklet lists sources available within Sheffield Libraries Archives and Information for the study of the city's Black African and Black Caribbean communities.

It is not a detailed history of Black African and Black Caribbean immigration into Sheffield; it merely points the reader who wishes to carry out their own research to what is available within Sheffield Libraries and Archives.

References are included to books, documents, photographs and other items which explicitly refer to the Black African and Black Caribbean communities of Sheffield. It does not include own language books or works of fiction. Neither does it include details of books about African and Caribbean countries. South African apartheid issues are also excluded. Note there is a separate Study Guide for Sheffield's Somali Community.

The catalogues of Sheffield Local Studies Library and Sheffield City Archives will contain additional references not listed here. This is because some items will include implicit references to these communities. For instance, there are a large number of reports and documents which refer to wider terms (or terms no longer used) such as 'ethnic minority', 'immigration' or 'race relations'. Using these terms to search the service's catalogues is likely to yield further relevant material.

Some of Sheffield's African and Caribbean communities have lived in the UK since the 18th century. The 1950s and 1960s saw large scale immigration, encouraged to cover the shortfall in labour following the Second World War. The Empire Windrush brought the first group of immigrants to London in 1948. Many immigrants, including those from the Black African community settled in industrial cities, including Sheffield. Unrestricted travel around the Empire and Commonwealth meant that the number of Caribbean people rose sharply in the 1960s and 1970s. It was during this time that a Caribbean community began to establish in Sheffield, as people moved to work in heavy industries such as steel. In recent years people from countries such as Eritrea, Somalia, Zimbabwe, Kenya, Ethiopia, Liberia and Congo have come to Sheffield seeking asylum. More detailed research may reveal additional references to African and Caribbean communities in Sheffield.

(Sheffield Local Studies Library: microfiche)

The British Library British Newspapers website includes over eighteen million pages from over 700 national and local newspapers (including a number of Sheffield titles)
<http://www.britishnewspaperarchive.co.uk/>

The Sheffield Star and Sheffield Telegraph have some of their articles from the last 6 years or so available online at: <http://www.thestar.co.uk> and www.sheffieldtelegraph.co.uk

Some Sheffield Star articles from 2003 onwards are also online via Newsbank. Members of Sheffield Libraries and Archives can access this pay-per-view site for free using their library membership number <https://www.sheffield.gov.uk/libraries>

Archives of some national newspapers are available on the internet, notably The Times (<http://www.thetimes.co.uk/tto/archive/>) and The Guardian (<http://archive.guardian.co.uk>)

Local magazines and newsletters such as the Burngreave Messenger (Sheffield Local Studies Library: 307.1 SQ) may include relevant references.

Photographs

Over 90,000 images from the Sheffield Local Studies Library and City Archives collections are available to search online at www.picturesheffield.com. A number of them relate to African / Caribbean communities.

Trade directories / telephone directories / electoral registers

Trade directories from the 18th century onwards list businesses and private residents in Sheffield. Those from the 1950s onwards in particular may list African Caribbean families / businesses. Similarly, telephone directories of private residents and the Yellow Pages for businesses may reveal relevant references.
(Sheffield Local Studies Library and Sheffield City Archives)

Electoral registers are published every year. A search of these will reveal the names and addresses of those with African Caribbean origins who had the right to vote.
(Sheffield Local Studies Library)

Census returns and population statistics

A population census had been undertaken every 10 years since 1801 (with the exception of 1941). Census returns record details of every citizen including name, address, age, marital status and birth place. Those from 1841 - 1911 are available to view for free at all Sheffield Libraries and at Sheffield City Archives via www.findmypast.co.uk

The 1939 Register (containing details of every resident in the UK) is also available via www.findmypast.co.uk

Published statistical reports, which include data on ethnic origin (but not generally broken down by nationality), are available up to the latest census (2011). Copies of statistical reports to 1991 are available at the Reference and Information and Local Studies libraries in the Central Library.

School Records

School admission registers can be useful for studying settlement patterns in the city. Sheffield City Archives has such records for over 200 schools dating from the 19th century. These are kept confidential for 75 years so the earliest ones available for general research are from before 1943. For a detailed list of school records at the City Archives see www.sheffield.gov.uk/archives. Contact us for further information on how to access these items.

Business records

It's possible that archives from the steel industry and the coal mining industry may contain references to workers with African and Caribbean origins.

Search the Archives catalogue (<http://www.calmview.eu/SheffieldArchives/CalmView/>) or contact us direct for further advice.

Churches

The City Archives and Local Studies Library holds a large number of archives and printed items such as newsletters, etc. from churches and chapels; some of which may have been attended by Afro-Caribbean communities (for example, the New Testament Church of God and the Seventh Day Adventists).

Check the online City Archives catalogue (<http://www.calmview.eu/SheffieldArchives/CalmView/>) and the Local Studies element of the Library catalogue (<http://library.sheffield.gov.uk/uhtbin/webcat>)

Cemeteries

Cemetery burial registers will also yield relevant entries. For a list of cemetery registers available at the City Archives check the collections section at www.sheffield.gov.uk/archives
