Introduction

This booklet lists sources available within Sheffield Libraries Archives and Information for the study of the city's Chinese community.

It is not a detailed history of Chinese immigration into Sheffield; it merely points the reader who wishes to carry out their own research to what is available within Sheffield Libraries and Archives.

References to books, documents, photographs and other items which explicitly refer to the Chinese community of Sheffield are included. This guide does not include own language books, works of fiction or documents translated into Chinese languages. Neither does it include details of Sheffield's twinning arrangements with Anshan or books about China.

The catalogues of Sheffield Local Studies Library and Sheffield Archives will contain additional references not listed here. This is because some items will include implicit references to the Chinese community. For instance, there are a large number of reports and documents which refer to wider terms (or terms no longer used) such as 'ethnic minority', 'refugees', 'immigration' or 'race relations'. Using these terms to search the services' catalogue is likely to yield further relevant material.

Chinese people have been settling in Britain for over 200 years. The first settlers tended to come via trading links between Britain's ports such as Liverpool with ports such as Shanghai. Outside of London, Manchester, Birmingham and Liverpool have the largest Chinese communities. With a rise in demand for Chinese cuisine from the late 1950s and the collapse of the agriculture sector in rural Hong Kong many more Chinese came to the UK.

The earliest reference to Chinese settlers in Sheffield can be found in the burial register for St Paul's churchyard (now the Peace Gardens) for 1855. On 31 May 1855 A. Chow son of Too Ki (a magician) was buried. The vicar has written the word 'Chinese' in the entry. Nothing else has been discovered about Too Ki. The next reference isn't until 1910 - a laundry proprietor named Yun Wong with a business on Abbeydale Road is listed in a trade directory for that year. However it wasn't until the 1960s that many more Chinese came to settle in the city.

The 2001 census recorded 2,200 Chinese people in Sheffield, with an additional 1,000 students of Chinese origin. The highest concentrations of Chinese are found in Highfield, Sharrow, Broomhill and Broomhall. They have come from mainland China, Hong Kong, Macau, Malaysia, Singapore, Taiwan as well as other parts of Britain.

The earliest reference to a 'Chinese' restaurant is the Rickshaw in Broomhall Street in a trade directory of 1957.

The examples of Chinese new year celebrations (below) are from the Local Studies pamphlets and photograph collections.

List of documents, books, photographs and other items available at Sheffield Libraries, Archives and Information

Newspaper reports, etc.

Relevant articles and features may appear in local newspapers. The main titles available at Sheffield Local Studies Library for the 20th century are: Sheffield Daily Telegraph, 1855 – 1986; Sheffield Telegraph (weekly) 1989 – date; Sheffield Independent 1819 – 1938 and the Star 1873 - date

The Local Studies Library local newspaper cuttings collection will include articles on 'ethnic minorities' and the 'Chinese community', 20th cent
(Sheffield Local Studies Library: microfiche)

Archives of some national newspapers are available on the internet, notably The Times (<http://www.thetimes.co.uk/tto/archive/>) and The Guardian (<http://archive.guardian.co.uk>)

The British Library British Newspapers 1800-1900 website includes over nine million pages from over 300 national and local newspapers (including the Sheffield and Rotherham Independent 1819-1909, Sheffield Daily Telegraph 1855-1950 and Sheffield Evening Telegraph 1887-1920)
(<http://www.britishnewspaperarchive.co.uk/>)

The Sheffield Star and Sheffield Telegraph have some of their articles from the last 6 years or so available online at: <http://www.thestar.co.uk> and www.sheffieldtelegraph.co.uk

Some Sheffield Star articles from 2003 onwards are also available via <http://infoweb.newsbank.com/>. Members of Sheffield Libraries and Archives can access this pay-per-view site for free using their library membership number.

Photographs

Over 65,000 images from the Sheffield Local Studies Library photographic collection are available to search online at www.picturesheffield.com. A number of them relate to the Chinese community.

Trade directories / telephone directories / electoral registers

Trade directories list businesses and private residents in Sheffield. They date from the 18th century. Those from the 1910s onwards in particular may list Chinese families / businesses. Similarly, telephone directories of private residents and the yellow pages for businesses may reveal relevant references.
(Sheffield Local Studies Library)

Electoral registers are published every year. A search of these will reveal the names and addresses of those with Chinese origins who had the right to vote.
(Sheffield Local Studies Library)

Census returns and population statistics

A population census has been undertaken every 10 years since 1801 (with the exception of 1941). Census returns record details of every citizen including name, address, age, marital status and birth place. Those from 1841 - 1911 are available to view for free at any Sheffield Libraries and at Sheffield Archives via Ancestry.com.

Published statistical reports, which include data on ethnic origin (but not generally broken down by nationality), are available up to the latest census (2011). Copies of statistical reports to 2001 are available at the Reference and Information and Local Studies libraries in the Central Library. More recent data is available on the Sheffield City Council website: <https://www.sheffield.gov.uk/your-city-council/sheffield-profile/population-and-health.html>

School Records

School admission registers can be useful for studying settlement patterns in the city. Sheffield Archives has such records for over 200 schools dating from the 19th century. These are kept confidential for 75 years so the earliest ones available for general research are from before 1936. Contact Sheffield Archives for further information on how to access these items.
